5. ORS Report - Steve Brunero Reports:

Steve thanked membership and the ORS team for all their efforts to grow and keep the Council moving forward with its mission.

* While in DC Steve met with Jim Langevin's office; they expressed concern about the Work Incentives Planning and Assistance Grant due to its cancelation, however since this meeting the SSA has informed us that the funding is coming back in August. Kathleen Grygiel has written a grant and is moving forward because benefit planning is a very important component to helping people with disabilities.

* Federal government cutbacks, sequestration, are affecting our federal oversight agency, however in RI no cutbacks on staff workdays or client services. We are losing approximately a half million dollars but offsetting that through reallocation and consumer price index increases.

* National Conference September 16th – 17th in RI - The 6th Annual Summit on Vocational Rehabilitation Program Evaluation and Quality Assurance 9/16/2013-9/17/2013 Omni Providence Hotel. Everyone here is invited to attend.

* Personnel - Staffing at ORS VR and SBVI is in good shape. Disability Determination Services (DDS) is still under-staffed due to federal hiring freezes.

* ORS Building - Ron Racine has been working on Workplace Safety at ORS. In order to accommodate our clients we have taken over space on the first floor for a reception area, office space, and conference rooms.

* The Governor presented an Executive Order to increase employment opportunities in State Government for underserved populations. The Order didn't specify people with disabilities; however we would like to have an executive order specifically recognizing people with disabilities and employment opportunities. We have reached out to the Office of Diversity to send names of people with disabilities out when offering candidates for job placements.

National Governor's Association has a major initiative to hire people with disabilities. And a number of people from RI, including Ron Racine, Bob Cooper are a few, went to a conference to promote initiatives for better employment opportunities for people with disabilities.

* RI Best and Emerging Practices that are national recognized – ORS' Cooperative Agreement with RIDE including the Summer Work Program, and Asperger Syndrome Initiative that identifies providers trained to work with people who have Asperger Syndrome.

* ADA Investigation in RI: The United States Department of Justice is looking at violations of The Americans with Disabilities Act, primarily with sheltered workshops and supportive employment programs for people with intellectual and developmentally disabilities.

6. Vocational Rehabilitation Counselors - Grace Pires, Sharon Thistlewhite-Morra

Grace Pires has worked for ORS; Services for the Blind and Visually Impaired for the past 9 years, before that she was a client with the program. Because of her experiences as a client she feels she has a better understanding of what it is like to go through the process. She came to this country at 10 years old and didn't know what she would do for school and eventually employment; her language barriers and disability contributed to her uncertainty. She had never known a blind person who worked besides celebrities! But her parents came to this country to give her a better chance for a productive future, one where she would be able to excel at whatever she wanted. But she did not know what she wanted. It was crucial to have a counselor to help her find goals for work and ORS made that difference in focusing in on her goals. Jerry Shapiro and Monica Dzialo were her counselors and they set the bar high. Her experiences as a young person working with ORS help her better understand her clients today so they can accomplish their goals as she did. Today she shows people the possibilities and inspires them to reach for what they might feel is beyond their disabilities. She now inspires her clients as he counselors once did!

Sharon Thistlewhite-Morra's path in getting to her current position started when she was young; bringing home those people who needed help. As she matured, she worked in domestic violence shelters, hot lines and then in the court system before receiving her Masters and started working with ORS in 2004. In 2008 a sudden mysterious illness sparked a journey to figure out what was wrong with her health. And it was at this time roles reversed and she became a client of ORS. Diagnosed with Fibromyalgia and Chronic Fatigue Syndrome, medications and therapies became a struggle making it hard to work regular hours. ORS let her come back part time. Her journey of learning eventually lead to a holistic approach, going on a special diet of raw, organic, and no GMO foods. All this happened in 2008 and since then she has come back to work full time and is a Senior Counselor with ORS making the necessary accommodations for her along the way. A 'practice what you preach approach'! She feels strongly that everyone's journey is different and that ORS takes the individual and everything that comes with each person as top priority.

Stephen Brunero added some thoughts about the number of people with disabilities that work at ORS and how the agency works hard to support them professionally. ORS is a model state agency for hiring people with disabilities being the first agency to use voice mail and user technology with our website and even have a website.
