MYTH: I can't work because I've been determined to have a disability

Fact! Even though you may have been required to prove that you were unable to work at the time of your application, if you choose to work now, SSA will encourage that choice. In fact, it might mean that you have become eligible for benefits from Social Security and other services in your community. These services most likely include help getting a job! We recommend looking into your local Vocational Rehabilitation Services, or you could ask a transition teacher if you are still in school!

Contact: Office of Rehabilitation Services, 401-421-7005, 40 Fountain Street, Providence, RI or online at www.ors.ri.gov if you would like to become employed.

MYTH: When I go to work, I'll lose everything, including my cash benefit, and I won't be able to pay my bills so it's not worth working at ALL!

Fact! There are work incentives that are used to calculate what your cash benefit will be when earning income. It is possible that your cash benefit will not be affected at all, or that it is affected only a small amount, but it is very likely that your monthly financial outlook will improve with earning from work. There are different work incentives for the SSI and SSDI program you can get more information here:

<http://www.socialsecurity.gov/disabilityresearch/workincentives.html>.

MYTH: If I start working, Social Security will decide I'm not "disabled".

Fact! There are different rules for the SSI and SSDI program. When you start working there is no immediate decision that you are not due your benefits. It is, however, VERY important that you update Social Security on your new position and REQUEST a receipt for the earning you reported.

MYTH: People who work are not eligible for SSI

Fact! People can work and receive SSI. Cash benefits might be reduced due to earnings but the probability of the overall financial outcome being better than receiving benefits alone is VERY HIGH. There are very few situations where the financial outcome would be better than work and receiving SSI.

MYTH: SSI benefits will stop if a person goes into a training program, such as a vocational or university program.

Fact! SSI benefits will continue if you continue to remain financially eligible and meet the disability criteria. If a student is under the age of 22, then there are even more options to earn more money and to school/training programs.

Myth: If I try to go to work, I will automatically lose my Medicare or Medicaid.

Fact! First, as long as you keep receiving a benefit check of any amount, you will keep your health insurance. If you earn enough that your Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI) checks stop, Medicare can continue for up to 93 months. If you currently receive Medicaid, you should be eligible to continue to receive Medicaid even after you stop receiving Supplemental Security Income (SSI) benefits due to work. To be eligible you need to meet certain requirements, which include earnings below a threshold amount set by your state. Even if your earnings exceed the state threshold, you may still be eligible and should talk to your state Medicaid office. For more information about Keeping Your Medical Benefits after cash benefits stop, visit ssa.gov/redbook. The State of RI also has a program called the Sherlock Plan that may apply in your situation that allows for Medicaid for people who work. Contact the Sherlock Center Work Incentives Planning Assistance Program at 401-456-4733 for more detailed information.

APSE Top 10 Myths and Facts of Social Security Benefits and Work

Work Incentives Information & Benefits Counseling

Do you know you can work while receiving SSI/SSDI disability benefits?

Yes, it is true! If you receive disability benefits and want to work, program rules known as “work incentives” make it possible. You can learn about work incentives from various publications published by the Social Security Administration (SSA), by attending a public information session, and/or by connecting with a certified Work Incentives Benefits Specialist. You can also join the Sherlock Center mailing list to receive timely information.

How can a Work Incentives Benefits Specialist help you?

Find out how to use work incentives

A Work Incentives Benefits Specialist can show you how to establish and use work incentives such as:

- Plan to Achieve Self-Support
- Impairment-Related Work Expenses
- Student Earned Income Exclusion
- Continued Medicaid Coverage for Individuals Who Work 1619(b)
- Expedited Reinstatement

These are just a few of the incentives!

Get support at all stages of employment

Services may be just in time, ongoing, and for the short-term or long-term. Some of the services you can receive from a Work Incentives Benefits Specialist include:

- Support with communicating with various agencies such as Social Security or Human Services.
- Benefits Summary & Analysis (BS&A)– a written report summarizing the impact of employment on your current benefits.
- Ongoing support when there are changes with your income, health insurance, or household.
- Developing a plan for coordinating and managing work incentives and changes in benefits.

Building a relationship with a benefits specialist can result in a long lasting resource throughout your career.

Learn to manage your benefits

If you have multiple benefits, it can be challenging to navigate all of the different systems. Benefits like SNAP, Housing, Medicaid, and others may change when you are working. A Work Incentive Benefits Specialist can support you with understanding these changes while you work.

When you connect with a Work Incentives Benefits Specialist, you will find out:

- What work incentives are available to you
- How to report your earned income
- How to minimize overpayments
- How to access and maintain health insurance
- What happens when your income increases
